faster.Q: Get model and set data for a new view in ASP.NET MVC I am new to ASP.NET MVC (4) and I want to create a basic kind of client application. The app should be able to add entries from web page to a database in a WebForms way (just via textboxes). But that's not an option. I want to learn what and how exactly should I put in my Model and Controller. I have an "Entry" model with two properties: Title (String) Content (String) I have created a ViewModel from my Entry model:

public class EntryViewModel { public EntryViewModel(Entry entry) { Title =

entry.Title; Content = entry.Content; } public string Title { get; set; } public string Content { get; set; } } I have created a Controller from a (simplified)
EntryViewModel: [HttpPost] public
ActionResult
AddEntry(EntryViewModel model) { var
entry = new Entry { Title = model.Title, Content = model.Content };
db.Entry(entry).State = System.Data.Entity.EntityState.Added;
db.SaveChanges(); return View(); } Now I want to create a new View from the already existing ViewModel (EntryViewModel) and populate it by the

Model (the one got from the View). But I am not sure how I can make use of that. How do I make use of the model to create a new view? Do I have to use a second ViewModel? edit Here is the View from which I want to create a new view: @model List @ {
